

Bison running for...I don't know why, they are just running.

To answer questions some of you who saw my TV appearance this summer, no I did not get the glove. It was the guy next to me.

I'm not sure there is supposed to be a waterfall here, but there was this time.

I'm driving through the Black Hills when I see this sign.

Then I see this sign. It's not that big a deal because I don't have a cell phone. Then I start thinking, am I close enough that a cell phone would set off a blast? If so, that's probably not cool. Then I do a little more thinking, is this why people who have been telling me I should get a cell phone want me to get a cell phone? Don't worry, I was driving away when I was thinking the thoughts I was thinking, though I did drive past these same signs again a little later.